When in Discovery Bay, some or all of these ships dumped or discharged oils, sewage, and other noxious matter into the waters of Discovery Bay which polluted both the waters and the adjacent tide lands. Some of these noxious materials may have been ammunition carried by these ships.

Many, if not all, of these ships left Port Discovery at Discovery Bay in February 1946 and headed to Port Chicago in San Francisco, California, Bangor Naval Ammunition Depot, Bangor, Washington, or elsewhere.

This request seeks information related to these ships during this time period. Please note that while the incident occurred in 1945, this request seeks information, communications, and studies that may have occurred from that date to present.

Please provide:

4. Any documents relating to the offloading of inventory of the above referenced ships, or any other ship ordered to Discovery Bay for the dates described above, at ammunition depots or other places after the above referenced ships departed from Discovery Bay, including but not limited to Bangor Naval Ammunition Depot, Bangor, Washington and Port Chicago in California, from 1945 to 1950.

5. Please provide any and all studies, reports, field notes, correspondence (both internal and external, including but not limited to correspondence with the EPA or any Washington State governmental agency) regarding the disposal of ammunition or other material into Discovery Bay during the time period described above from 1945 to present.
